

socialist resistance

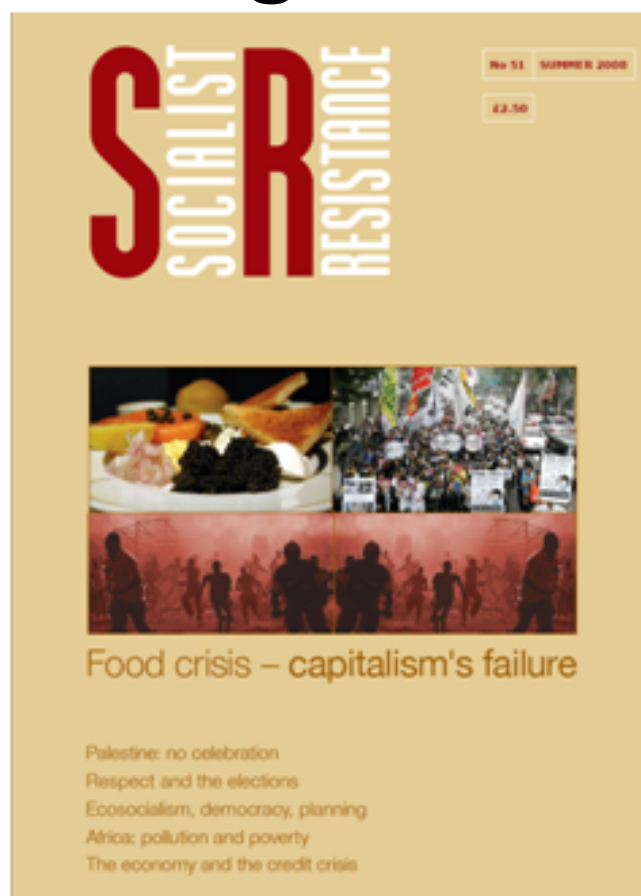

Socialist Resistance is a quarterly magazine produced by a group of people who are convinced that capitalism is a system that offers most of humanity a future of war, environmental catastrophe and poverty.

We are the only Marxist organization in Britain that calls itself ecosocialist. We know that the ruling class will look for solutions to the environmental disaster that capitalism has created, but they will try and make the poor, the working class and the developing world pay.

We argue that the Labour Party has become so right wing that, even though millions of workers still support it, the big job for socialists in Britain is to help create a new anti-capitalist party that supports workers' struggles, defends asylum seekers, fights for women's rights and opposes imperialist wars.

We are working hard to make sure that Respect Renewal is a success because we think that it is an important step along this road.
